GPs' surgery merger to take place in the spring

THE date of a forthcoming merge between two GP practices in Haverhill has been revealed as April next year, with both practices reassuring patients it will be "business as usual".

The scheduling announcement comes after patients from the Christmas Maltings Surgery and Stourview Medical Centre were consulted for their views on the merger.

The proposed name of the new practice will be the Haverhill Family Practice and the buildings of both premises will continue to be used following the transition.

Ann Sisson, practice manager at Dr Selby and Partners of The Christmas Maltings Surgery, acknowledged key consultation feedback was to keep the Stourview surgery building running.

She said: "I think this will be a good step forward for the town as long as we can keep the current services running as they do now. There are more and more mergers happening and I think this is the future for GP practices.

"Everyone has worries when mergers happen but we want to reassure people that both the staff and patients are the forefront – our main objective is to make sure it is as easy as possible."

Stourview Medical Centre currently only has one GP partner, Dr Bamidele Sule, who previously said it was "not sustainable" to continue his patient list on his own.

It is hoped that combining the two practices will see an increased range of health services on offer, more GP choice and improved continuity of care. Rachel Mack, Stourview Medical Centre practice manager, said: "We think this is the best thing for the patients and we look at it as a positive thing.

"We aim to run from both the two sites so patients have the option to go to the surgery they are familiar with.

"We work closely with the Christmas Maltings Surgery on a day to day basis and we are doing everything we can to make the merger smooth for both patients and staff."

During the public consultation, which ran from July 14 until August 31, patients were encouraged to share their views by filling out a questionnaire which they could collect from either surgery.

The consultation followed NHS England's decision to give the go-ahead earlier this year and staff at both practices will be able to attend an information evening this month to answer any queries.

Dr Stephenson and Partners of The Christmas Maltings and Clements Practice are not involved in the move.

West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock said: "I welcome the merger of the Stourview surgery and Dr Selby & Partners GP practice that will take place next April.

"This is good news for Haverhill helping to improve healthcare for the town. I am working hard for all patients and will ensure the merger helps secure a better NHS for the future.

"I am pleased by this announcement, but it must signify the start of further improvements to help overall healthcare in the town."

Phonics are as easy as A, B, C!

THERE were celebrations at Castle Camps C of E Primary School after staff received a personal letter from the Minister of State MP Nick Gibb congratulating them on achieving a 100 per cent success rate in this year's phonics check. A grasp on phonics – a method of teaching reading based on the sounds of letters, groups of letters and syllables – is one of the most important foundations for developing reading skills. Headteacher Alexandra O'Connor said: "Whilst we appreciate that every cohort of children is different, we're delighted with this year's results and pleased that the hard work of our pupils, parents and staff has been recognised by the Department for Education."

WE WILL REMEMBER:
Thousands turned out for parade and service in Haverhill on Sunday.

Paying tribute to Haverhill's fallen

FREYA LENG

THOUSANDS lined the streets of Haverhill on Sunday to remember those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

Local dignitaries including the Mayor of St Edmundsbury, Councillor Robert Everitt and Haverhill Mayor Roger Andre joined the Remembrance Day parade up the High Street and to the cemetery.

They were joined by many others including members of the Royal British Legion, the air, army and sea cadets, the Bury Sea Cadets band and the Local Veterans Association.

The parade was followed by a service in St Mary's Church led by Reverend Manette Crossman.

Ahead of the service, cadets from the town had placed poppies on the graves in the cemetery including those of soldiers and Commonwealth graves.

Cllr Andre said: "There were thousands there.

"The streets were lined. It was an excellent service accompanied by the Haverhill Silver band.

"It was very moving. The silver band added some spirit to the hymns and we observed a short silence following the laying of the wreath on the church memorial."

The service was part of the town's commemorations of the centenary of the outbreak of the First World War which includes a three-week exhibition ending until Friday in Haverhill

Arts Centre. Curated by the Haverhill History Group, the exhibition has artefacts on display including activities going on in the town during the first and second world wars along with details of some of the men on the war memorial.

A further service of remembrance took place on Tuesday to mark Armistice Day at Haverhill Cemetery involving St Felix RC Primary School.

Meanwhile, Samuel Ward Academy held a First World War exhibition last Thursday.

There were displays of war poetry the students had written along with the extensive research some of them had done to find out about their family's war history.

Staff also shared their own family's war history as well as original artefacts including medals.

TRIBUTES: The Remembrance Day parade, left. Below: Georgina Mitchell, Alice Field-Rayner and Alex Smith, from Samuel Ward Academy, with the exhibition

Lisa Taylor, from Samuel Ward, said: "The event closed with silence falling and the Chamber Choir singing softly 'For the Fallen' followed by the last post on the piano. It was a poignant moment to share with students and staff."

In Castle Camps, a Remembrance Day Service, led by Reverend Graham Ridgwell, was held at the War Memorial on Tuesday.

Two pupils from the village primary school, Joshua and Lucy, read out the names of the servicemen as wooden crosses, one to commemorate each soldier, were placed at the foot of the memorial.

Patsy May's smile will light up the town this Christmas

NATALIE ROBINSON

STAR of Britain's Got Talent Patsy May will be turning on Haverhill's Christmas lights this year.

The loveable puppet, who won the hearts of the nation when she appeared on ITV's Britain's Got Talent earlier this year, will be lighting up Haverhill's High Street on December 5.

Pint-sized Patsy-May performed Dream a Little Dream of Me which wooed presenters Ant and Dec, but sadly she went out of the contest in the first round of the semi-finals on May 26.

Patsy May, who was born in Haverhill but now resides in upstate New York, said she was excited about returning to her hometown.

"It's great to be in this little town. Size doesn't matter, right? I've visited before and deep down inside it feels like home.

"I'm pretty excited to be turning on the Christmas lights. I'm not sure if these people know – they should do – but I'm kind of a big deal. "And most importantly, I love Christmas! And lights! And hopefully I can celebrate in one of the cute little bars here. I have no idea what a Drabbet is but I think I'd like to try one."

Since appearing on the show, Patsy has mingled with the A-listers, made music videos, enjoyed tea at The Ritz and worked at "perfecting her general fabulousness".

And the puppeteer behind Patsy, Laura Bacon, is excited to be returning to her home town of Haverhill too.

The former Chalkstone Middle and Samuel Ward Upper School student said: "I work for Panavision, a film making company and I have been doing extra work.

"I was recently in Downton Abbey and I also worked on a Morrisons commercial with Ant and Dec which will be on over Christmas dressed up as Puss in Boots.

"I was a bit worried they wouldn't know who I was as they only ever really interacted with Patsy when I was on the show but they said 'oh I know you!' so it was great to be back."

And there's also plenty for Patsy to sink her teeth into. She added: "Patsy has lots in the pipeline. We are hoping to get her in the panto next Christmas.

"I don't think the TV viewers have seen the last of Patsy May.

"When the show starts again I think we'll see more of her. Simon told her this time next year she'll be in Amanda's chair and I think it's gone straight to Patsy's head that it's going to happen."

STAR ATTRACTION: Patsy May will be turning on Haverhill's Christmas lights on December 5. The loveable puppet shot to fame when she won the hearts of the nation – and presenters Ant and Dec, above – on Britain's Got Talent earlier this year

Patsy will be turning on the lights in the Market Square in Haverhill at 6.30pm on Friday, December 5.

Nick Keeble, arts and leisure manager in Haverhill, said: "We're thrilled and honoured that Miss Patsy May has managed to squeeze us into her busy showbiz schedule.

"Her rider rivals Mariah Carey's but she's worth it!"

Alongside the lights switch on, a free fireworks display will also be held on the Recreation Ground at 8pm and on Saturday, December 6, a free ice skating event will take over the Market Square.

Tools worth £1,500 taken from van in evening theft

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after a van was broken into and £1,500 of equipment was stolen in Great Bradley.

The van was broken into at some time between 6pm and 8.30pm on Sunday, October 26 while parked in the Clarendale Estate.

During the times, the lock of a green Vauxhall Combo van was forced and power tools and equipment valued at about £1,500 were stolen from inside.

Police have now urged people to remove property from inside their cars and vans when they can.

If equipment has to be left in vans, police said that it should be stored in a "fixed and secure strong box within the van".

Alarms are also available for larger toolboxes to deter people.

Anyone who witnessed the suspicious activity around the time of this incident or has any information about the theft should call Pc Rupert Beynon at Haverhill Police Station on 101 quoting reference HH/14/2106.

Alternatively, call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Sharing views of health in report

A NEW report has been published highlighting the views of local people on how health services can adapt to meet demand.

Healthwatch Suffolk have produced the report after 40 public engagement events across west Suffolk where the ideas and thoughts of local people were gathered.

Their views will be used to help "shape the future design" of joined-up health and social care services to help them to improve.

It will also help to determine the future commissioning of the NHS 111 service, out of hours GPs and community health services.

Annie Topping, chief executive of Healthwatch, said: "We found that people recognise the need to better integrate health and care services and that there was support for many concepts presented such as the development of urgent care hubs that could encourage patients to use A&E more appropriately.

"Healthwatch Suffolk has published a number of papers which have included reported experiences of ambulance services, NHS 111 and GP practices in the county.

"We will expect the CCGs and Suffolk County Council to take into account the views highlighted in all of our reports and incorporate them into the development of new service models."

Post office move plans

A POST office is set to move – but would be open for more hours each week.

The Kedington branch, which is in The Parade, will move to Nisa Stores in Silver Street if plans are approved.

The Post Office has described the proposed layout as a "modern open-plan local-style branch with extended opening hours".

Customers will be served from a till at the shop counter during shop hours instead of a standalone counter with a screen.

The branch would be open Monday to Saturday, from 7am to 8pm and Sunday, 8am to 5pm.

The changes are subject to a consultation, which ends January 5. Send your comments via freepost to Post Office Ltd, email comments@postoffice.co.uk, call 08457 223344 or Textphone on 08457 223355.

Improvement welcomed to phone signal

WEST Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock has welcomed steps taken by the government to improve mobile coverage.

Currently, 22.3 per cent of Suffolk has partial not-spots, areas where there is coverage from one or more, but not all four mobile networks.

The government is working with mobile operators to find improvements and see if new laws are needed to improve coverage, which they say puts jobs and growth at risk because it's hard to communicate.

Matthew Hancock has welcomed the news and hopes that it will help businesses in the local area. He said: "22.3 per cent of Suffolk has poor mobile coverage which is causing frustration for people trying to make a call or send a text and making it more difficult for businesses to operate and grow."

"As part of this we will continue to work with mobile companies as well as considering changing the law so that people can use a different mobile network if they can't get a signal with their own network."

"Ensuring people and businesses can get good mobile coverage is a key part of our long-term economic plan that will help businesses to grow and produce more jobs, giving people greater financial security and peace of mind."

Cancer survivors are 'simply the breast'

FREYA LENG

THREE women from Haverhill have proved they are 'simply the breast' after having their busts cast for charity.

Tania Watson, Kerry Farrant and Susannah Johns were part of a group of 23 Suffolk women who have either had breast cancer or know someone who has, and took part in the project organised by the Suffolk group of Breakthrough Breast cancer.

Throughout October – to mark Breast Cancer Awareness Month – the busts have been on display in businesses around Bury St Edmunds along with information about each model and their inspirational stories.

The busts, which have been decorated by local artists, are being auctioned off online.

The auction finishes at 8pm on Sunday.

'Simply the Breast' is the brainchild of Keri Bird, of Birds Body Castings, who made all the casts.

Mrs Watson, who runs Haverhill's Slimming World, had a mastectomy and reconstruction in January. The 54-year-old, of Kedington, said: "I thought it would be something positive to do."

"For those of us that have been through it, it's quite empowering."

"And those people who have been touched by it in other ways, it gives them something to do to show their support."

Sue Smith, a voluntary member of the Suffolk Breakthrough Breast cancer group, said so far the busts had raised £2,000.

"It's one of the best projects we've done," she said. "We decided to put the casts out for everyone to be aware of why it's important to check themselves, early detection means better survival." To view the auction, visit the-saleroom.com/simplythebreast.

'Intrusive' extension approved

PLANS for a single-storey extension and one to the rear in Haverhill have been approved despite protests from residents.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council's planning committee approved the proposed extension to 50 Duddery Hill at a meeting last Thursday.

The plans had attracted opposition from the town council and people living nearby who felt there would be a lack of privacy in the back garden due to the scale and design of the rear extension.

Cllr Maureen Byrne, Haverhill Deputy Mayor and ward member who spoke out against the plans at the meeting, said: "This isn't about opposing people improving their properties," she said. "Mrs Taylor [a resident] and myself when I viewed where the new build is going to be, it's rather substantial and intrusive."

"I'm disappointed for Mrs Taylor and the other resident but the planning application met all the requirements for approval."

"The application was amended from the original to meet the National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF), they had no alternative but to approve it."

PUT TO THE TEST: Alison Blackwell, Simon Ginders-Coxshall, Warren Smyth and Lynda Pope

Top directors hit the front line

TOP directors at leisure centres in Suffolk will be putting their skills to the test next week to raise cash for charity.

The bosses from Abbeycroft Leisure and Anglia Community Leisure will be trying out their business skills to compete against each other in an Apprentice style contest.

Warren Smyth, chief executive of the trusts will be putting his customer service skills to the test on the reception desk of Haverhill Leisure Centre.

He said: "This is a great way to raise money for such a good cause as well as spend some time on the frontline of our business with our staff who do a fantastic job all year round."

Alison Blackwell, operations director, will also be taking to work on pouring the coffees in the centre's cafe.

Elsewhere in Suffolk, Simon Ginders-Coxshall, operations director, and Lynda Pope, finance director, will be taking on the reception desks and cafes in Newmarket and Bury.

Abbeycroft's chairman and president of the Suffolk chamber of commerce Sarah Howard will be judging the contest on Children in Need day on Friday, November 14, judging them on their performances.

Tributes paid to teen killed in quad bike crash

FAMILY members have paid tribute to an 18-year-old who died after his quad bike hit a tree in Cowlinge at the weekend.

Rory Kenneth, of Maidenhead in Berkshire, died after the accident which occurred in Queen Street, Cowlinge, in the early hours of Sunday, November 9.

Police and the ambulance service were called to the scene at about 3.40am. Rory was taken to Addenbrooke's hospital but died shortly afterwards.

The family of the 'caring'

and sharp-witted teenager have paid tribute to him.

In a statement they said: "Rory was a loving, sharp witted 18-year-old who had just started his dream job when he died riding a quad bike at Cowlinge in Suffolk early Sunday morning.

"He had spent two years at agricultural college and had just gained his extended diploma in Gamekeeping and Wildlife Management.

"He was a good skier, qualified canoeist, and cyclist who was never happier than out of the classroom studying nature, be it animals, birds, insects or plants.

"His passion for outdoor life along with his razor-sharp wit and genuine caring attitude endeared him to others.

"He has left behind a devastated family and the huge deluge of emails and cards we have received are testament to the constant source of energy and fun that was Rory.

"The brightest star in our life has gone out."

Talks planned over proposed A board regulations

DISCUSSIONS are set to be held in the new year between Haverhill councillors and businesses following the announcement of plans to "declutter" the town centre's streets.

The move comes after St Edmundsbury Borough Council revealed proposals to regulate the use of advertising A-boards.

Some business on Haverhill High Street branded the proposals as unfair and urged the council to find alternative means of decluttering the city centre.

However a spokesman for St Edmundsbury Borough Council said: "We recognise that there are views for and against having an A-boards policy.

"We are meeting in the new year with retail trade associations, chamber of commerce and town councils to explain the national regulations which have been in place for a number of years now.

"Unless an individual complains against a certain shop or business displaying an A-board, the traders themselves will have plenty of time to either apply for permission or to remove their A-boards.

"An update on how the policy is to be rolled out, will be presented to cabinet on December 2."

Thanks for joining us

Could I please say a big thank you to all who attended the recent Parkinsons UK support meeting, held at the Chalkstone community Centre, Strasbourg Square, Haverhill, on the 29th October. It was lovely to meet you all.

Also thank you to the many professionals who came along to offer support and advice or just further information, where and if needed.

I hope every one who came along on the day went away with something positive from the meeting. I know I did, and that is there is a great many nice people out there who suffer from Parkinsons who would like to see a support group set up for Haverhill and the surrounding areas.

Parkinsons UK co-ordinators are hoping to hold another event early next year.

To try and get a better understanding of numbers interested and to get a regular support group going we need even more bums on seats at the next event. So the more people you can tell the higher chance we have of showing them we need this in Haverhill.

If you want to know more please contact Parkinsons UK, details on their website: www.parkinsons.org.uk or email me at johnson17@sky.com and I will be happy to let you know further details as they become available by return email. Once again a big thank you to all who attended. I look forward to meeting you all again soon.

Not the right place

MY wife and I are also opposing the plans for 15 flats to be built on Anglian Place Burton End. Our home in Howard Close where we have lived for nearly nine years will be directly overlooked by most of the windows to the rear of the proposed development so we will also be overshadowed and lose all privacy to the rear of our property. The "planting of trees" at the edge of my boundary will not hide a construction of this scale.

The extra traffic from the proposed development will increase the danger to pedestrians using the footpath and vehicles using the traffic calming chicane as the entrance to Anglian Place is directly in the middle of the chicane (single lane) and there have already been several near misses since block A and block B were constructed.

KELLIE Nunn took this photo at Walton on the Naze in the last week of October. She said: "I love the beach and I'm glad it's a hot Hallowe'en this year."

There will be more water run off due to the size of the footprint of the proposed development – in February this year a torrent of water flooded down Burton End Road which to the best of my knowledge had not happened before Block B was constructed so if a further block (C) is constructed this can only be made worse.

This area is full of wild life and this will be destroyed by further development – there is a proposed woodland walk added to the plans but this is not a walk as it leads to nowhere so serves no purpose whatsoever.

We understand the need for local housing but surely squashing another block of flats on this piece of land is not the answer it can only have a detrimental effect on the area.

U3A TALK: CANINE PARTNERS BY MALCOLM WELLS

For Robin Grapes' first meeting as Chair of Haverhill U3A he reminded us that since the membership had increased by over 80 in 2014, which now well exceeded the seating capacity of the hall, early attendance for meetings would be the only guarantee of a seat. Malcolm Wells was introduced to us by Genny MacDonald as a promoter for the little known Canine Partners charity based in Sussex. Malcolm came straight to the purpose of the Charity, to train dogs to carry out tasks for people in need, extending the well known blind dog activity to ease the burden of incapacity or debilitating injury enabling people to lead more independent lives.

A total of 23 soldiers through "Help the Heroes" and many people with MS and those confined to wheelchairs have benefited since 2003. Malcolm gave an overview of how his team channel the natural intelligence of suitable dogs to perform specific tasks for their human partner.

Labrador puppies and a few other breeds are purchased at about seven weeks old, for initial training at the Sussex state-of-the-art centre, set up with non-Government funding of over half a million pounds.

To achieve the high level of canine competence required, with a pass rate of over 80 per cent, partners can spend two weeks at the 9 acre site of the Sussex HQ "target training", to teach the dog various functions; helping with supermarket shopping, fetching clothes from the wardrobe and actually using a washing machine.

Some just sit watching the clothes go round waiting for the signal to unload the drum! The waiting list is over 100, waiting for suitable canine partners.

The charity, employing 22 paid fundraisers and trainers and 400 volunteers, has sponsorship from a dog food supplier and also runs a website (caninepartners.org.uk). The next meeting will be a talk by David Simmonds entitled The National Trust in the East of England, at Haverhill Arts Centre starting at 10.30am

SUFFOLK FAMILY HISTORY SOCIETY

Last month members heard about the details to be found in the Domesday Book about Haverhill and Little Bradley, and how to understand the way it was written down. Wendy Barnes explained who owned the land and held the power.

This month's meeting is on Thursday 13th November, inside the Old Independent Church itself (CB9 9EF), rather than the Church Hall.

Starting at 7.30pm we will be focussing on their War Memorial and telling the stories of the lives of some of the men named on it. All are welcome. For more details phone Alan on 01440 704157

Get a fresh start at West Suffolk

IT'S never too late to swap to a college course if A-levels aren't for you, say West Suffolk College.

College places are still available in art and design, business management and accounting, performing arts, health and social care, science and sport.

The level three courses are still recognised as A-level equivalents by universities, the college said.

Find out more by calling the college on (01284) 716333 or email info@wsc.ac.uk.

Marathon effort for hospital

NEW equipment has been installed at West Suffolk Hospital after a marathon effort from a member of staff.

Jon Green, chief operating officer, raised almost £1,000 for the hospital after running the Loch Ness marathon last month.

Hospital sensors have been installed which will raise the alarm if someone falls in the bathroom.

Jon said: "The special sensors will make a big difference to our frail and elderly patients by alerting staff when someone at risk of a fall goes to the toilet so that they can go and offer help."

Tools of crime will be put to good use

NATALIE ROBINSON

TOOLS seized from crimes in Suffolk are providing jobs for people in developing countries.

Suffolk police have just donated their latest haul of tools, many of which were seized as a result of crimes, to Tools with a Mission (TWAM).

TWAM collects and refurbishes unwanted tools and equipment and sends them to developing countries worldwide.

Detective Superintendent Bernie Morgan said: "We have been supporting TWAM since 2007 and I am really pleased that we can continue to provide this charity with these tools, the majority of which have been seized as a result of crime and the remainder have been donated by friends of the constabulary."

"The concept of this registered charity is fantastic. It enables people in places like Uganda and Zambia to earn a living and to support themselves, empowering them to become self-sufficient."

The charity provides tools from simple carpentry kits to full workshop kits. They have machines for light sewing to industrial capabilities.

The tools are sent to vocational and

MISSION: Volunteers Paul and Kathy, police driver David Masterson, volunteer Martin, Det Supt Bernie Morgan and TWAM CEO Tim Elliot with the police donation of tools training centres to enable people to learn a skill and, on completion, they are given a full tradesman's kit or tailoring kit.

Tim Elliot, CEO of TWAM, said: "TWAM is pleased to be associated with Suffolk Constabulary and delighted to be able to put to a new and good use tools and equipment that may have been used for less worthy purposes."

Safety drive sees cars stopped

HUNDREDS of drivers in Suffolk were stopped by police to improve road safety as the nights get darker.

Operation Dark Night was launched across Suffolk and Norfolk, stopping 303 drivers and giving them verbal warnings about their cars.

Police focused on offences where cars had defects in lights, tyres, windscreens, or which could "impact on roadworthiness".

A total of 303 drivers were given verbal warnings, 85 defect rectification notices were issued, and three were given fixed penalty notices.

Collisions tend to increase in October and November, police said, with driver error of failing to look properly being the "biggest contributing factor" along with losing control and poor manoeuvring.

Chief Inspector Chris Spinks, head of the joint roads policing unit in Norfolk and Suffolk, said: "A handful of these offences related to tyre problems but the majority involved problems with lights."

"These may seem minor issues to some drivers but if you drive a car with one headlight out you are effectively reducing your visibility by half and the chances of being seen."

WINNING SMILES:

Youngsters in disco finals

YOUNGSTERS who travelled from Cambridge, Haverhill and the surrounding area to take part in the annual National Disco Finals competition, danced away with a whole host of awards.

Organised by the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing, the National Disco Freestyle Finals at The Spectrum Leisure Centre in Guildford, Surrey, attracted dance schools from across the country.

Fourteen dancers from the DanceXcel Academy, which holds classes across Cambridgeshire, Hertfordshire and Suffolk, took part in various events including Phoebe Barr who came fourth and Daisy Batty who came sixth in the Over 14's Silver and Gold set dance final.

Emillie and Maddison Howard came second in the Under 10's Bronze and Below Rock n Roll. Ronnie Walford, who is a director of the academy, said: "It takes hard work and discipline to master all the different routines and styles and our young dancers have proved they've got what it takes".

Fellow academy director Rachel Glen, added: "We have some really talented dancers in the local area who danced amazingly at the finals, they show great promise for the future".

Opening of care home postponed

RESIDENTS living at Place Court care home in Haverhill, have been told that there will be a short delay to their planned move into the new Cleves Place home on Millfield Way.

The move had been pencilled in for January but is now expected to take place in March.

Managers from Care UK, who are responsible for the care provided at Place Court, have pledged to ensure that the facilities and level of support provided to residents will continue until everyone moves to Cleves Place.

Regional operations director Rachel Gilbert said there was a delay in opening the Britten Court home in Lowestoft, and as a result the opening of Cleves Place will also be put back.

Sixth formers get all dressed up for hospice

TEENAGERS helped others "in their time of greatest need" when they raised money for a hospice charity.

Samuel Ward Academy sixth formers raised £150 for St Nicholas Hospice by wearing fancy dress.

Year 13 student Jacob Simmons said: "The hospice is important as it helps to support many local people in their time of greatest need and if there is any way in which we can support them as a sixth form we are happy to do so."

"Besides who can turn down the opportunity to dress up and come into school?"

Imogen Senior, achievement director at the sixth form, said their decision to support the hospice was "fantastic".

She added: "It is really important to us that the sixth form is not isolated from either the rest of the school or the local community."

'Speak up and save our waters'

COUNTRYSIDE lovers in Suffolk are being urged to speak up about the county's rivers, lakes, ponds and wetlands and "save our waters".

A group of 16 national charities and organisations, including the National Trust, the RSPB, the WWF and the Wildfowl and Wetlands Trust, have created the Blueprint for Water coalition and are urging communities to take part in a consultation on the future of England's waters, published last Monday.

Walkers, cyclists, anglers, boaters and holiday makers are all being asked to share the places they love on the Save Our Waters website.

Just a quarter of waters in England are in a "healthy state", the organisations said, and they want people to let the Environment Agency know which waters matter to them. A spokesperson said: "It may be a local special place where people enjoy relaxing, or a popular place to visit.

"These type of places need our help. Many of England's watery places have suffered the effects of extreme flooding, drought or pollution in recent years and only a quarter of our water bodies are in a healthy state.

"So the Save Our Water campaign is inviting everyone to tell the Environment Agency how important your local stream, river, pond, beach or lake is to you."

The Blueprint for Water coalition wants to set out steps to achieve "sustainable water" by 2015 as part of a campaign of Wildlife and Countryside Link.

Janina Gray, chair of the coalition, said: "This is a chance for everyone to send a clear message to the Environment Agency and the Government that Suffolk's water is important to you and that you want it managed well in future for everyone's benefit."

GET THE LOOK: Dame Sarah Trott, also known as Howie Watkins

Panto dame offers beauty tips

STAR of this year's pantomime in Haverhill Dame Sarah Trott has been sharing her beauty tips with local residents ahead of her performances.

Dame Sarah Trott, also known as Howie Watkins, presenter of the Really Wild Show on BBC, has been sharing her tips ahead of appearing in Jack and the Beanstalk later this year.

Dame Trott said: "Girls, if you want to knock the years off I recommend some lovely dark liner to contrast with a frosty pink lip and roughly one pot of sparkly eyeshadow – poison ivy green if you can get it – per eye. Blusher is good, and lots of it."

Dame Trott will be appearing alongside Coronation Street's Amy Forrester and West End vocalist Mitchell Armstrong at the Haverhill Arts Centre.

Students share creative ideas

THE most creative business ideas from students at West Suffolk College will be shared next week as part of Enterprise Week.

West Suffolk College will be holding the week, with a variety of students holding stalls in The Gateway building.

So far, stalls include pop up hair and beauty salons, as well as music, and cake stalls.

Members of the public will be able to go along and try out some of the treatments, and watch performances from the Conservatoire EAST music, dance and drama students.

Local businesses will also be attending the Enterprise Week to give talks to students on how they can succeed in interviews and start their own businesses.

Andrew Wheeler, lecturer in business management, said: "Enterprise week is about generating a spirit of entrepreneurship throughout the college and encouraging students to have a go at creating business ideas and putting them into action.

"We hope events like this will build confidence and increase the sharing of ideas across the whole college."

Enterprise Week will be held at West Suffolk College from 10am until 4pm from Monday.

'Bullies made me change for the better'

Adam Olivant's life was made hell by vicious bullies, but rather than become a victim, the 19-year-old was inspired to set up a support group for other young people going through the same. He has now been crowned Cambridgeshire's Young Person of the Year, and talks to Lydia Fallon

It would be fair to say teenagers can sometimes get a bad rap.

But a young man from Haverhill is definitely proving critics wrong. Adam Olivant, 19, is charming, eloquent and inspiring.

"I want to give back, to be someone other young people can go to for support," smiles Adam. "When someone comes to you and says 'I did what you suggested and it's better now', that's the most amazing thing to hear. The advice you've given has changed somebody's life and changed it for the better."

Adam is a mentor to victims of bullying, and has been a constant source of support for hundreds of young people over the past few years.

The teenager was recently crowned Cambridgeshire's Young Person of the Year in the Cambridge Regional Collage and Linx Young People of the Year awards (Yoypeys), held at Ely Cathedral last month, with judges praising Adam's "profound understanding of a deep-seated evil in our society."

It was, Adam says, a huge honour. "I was really surprised," he chuckles.

AWARD:
Adam Olivant

For more information about the Yoypeys, visit youngpeopleoftheyear.org.
For help and support if you're being bullied, go to beatbullying.org.

"It felt really unbelievable to win."

It's easy to see why Adam's touched so many; it's a thoroughly deserved award for somebody who's faced his fair share of adversity over the years.

Adam was bullied, physically and emotionally, for much of his school life. It started with petty name-calling but gradually got worse and worse, becoming unbearable by the time Adam reached his teens.

The bullies would pick on Adam about his size, his home life, any excuse they could think of. They were making his life a living hell. "It was really difficult," he sighs. "I wasn't going to school, I would skip lessons and I was getting these headaches all the time. I was in constant fear.

"One incident that still sticks in my mind was when I got pushed off my bike into an oncoming car when I was in Year 5. Luckily the car stopped because he saw what was happening, but that memory is still vivid.

"Nowadays, being an adult, it's much easier to ignore, but when you're young and it's very personal, it really does hurt. I wasn't the type of person who could stand up to them; I hate violence and fighting, so I'd just take it."

Adam says he always felt different from his peers, but was never sure why. Around the age of 13 he started to think he might be gay and confided in close friends. Rumours soon surfaced, and before he knew it the whole school was talking about it, which escalated the bullying.

"It was really scary because it's something I felt like I couldn't talk to my parents about," Adam says.

"You start doubting yourself and thinking 'Is this really wrong?'. You know in your mind you are who you are, but I tried to convince myself I was straight just to try and shut people up."

Now the bullying was homophobic too. There was nowhere to hide.

With the bullying showing no signs of letting up, Adam's school contacted his parents, and he knew then he must come out to his family. "I was really scared of telling them, because I felt like I needed more time, but they were really supportive and told me they loved me just the same," he smiles.

Adam finished secondary school in 2012 and started at Long Road Sixth Form College where he studied computing, chemistry, ICT and maths. He threw himself into college life, and finally felt comfortable enough to be his true self. "I was so much happier," he says.

Adam was determined to turn his experience of bullying into something positive, and offer the kind of support he'd so often craved.

"At Long Road I set up the Beat Bullying group and converted the Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender (LGBT) group into the Gay-Straight Alliance," he says.

"We wanted it to be a place where anyone could come and speak about issues that affect their daily life; a place where they could discuss whatever they wanted with no judgment."

Adam had found his calling and both groups thrived under his leadership.

"I really wish I'd had that support when I was being bullied – it would have made me realise I wasn't the only one going through it."

As well as the victims, occasionally Adam would also mentor bullies, which he says was surprisingly rewarding, "because when you're being bullied you hate them, but then when you start to speak to them, you understand that actually there is sometimes something that caused them to act how they do," he says.

Adam left college in the summer and started an IT job in the Pathology Partnership hosted by Cambridge University Hospitals, but he continues to mentor victims of bullying online for the charity Beat Bullying in his spare time.

"There's an anonymous chatroom where people can talk to me," he explains. "Bullying can leave you feeling very isolated and it's good to be a role model; someone who can help."

In spite of everything he's been through, Adam says he would thank the bullies for making him the man he is today.

"They've made me into a person who wants to give back and help others," he says. "It has changed me, changed me for the better."

bass, tiger prawns or salmon in a fennel and lemon sauce. If you're a pasta fan, you'll love the fresh ravioli with gorgonzola and walnut, or why not try something from the delicious pre-Christmas menu this December, which includes treats like a rump steak with gorgonzola and peppercorn sauce, roast turkey given an Italian "twist" with roasted Mediterranean vegetables, or a roasted vegetable risotto. You can browse the full menu online on Zafra's useful website, at zafrafinchingfield.co.uk.

Some special events are coming up at Zafra, offering you entertainment along with your meal.

On November 13 and 20, let Antony Myers entertain you with his Vegas cabaret show, or - for a seasonal treat - come along for his longer Vegas Christmas Party show on December 3 or 4. the GUIDE

The Hypochondriac, Cambridge Arts Theatre, until Saturday, November 15, at 7.45pm. Tickets £15-£35 from (01223) 503333 / cambridgeartstheatre.purchase-tickets-online.co.uk

The Hypochondriac

THE rich – but stingy – Argan is perpetually convinced he is afflicted by a whole range of dire symptoms, despite being perfectly well and perfectly wealthy.

A host of quacks – as well as his wife – would like to see him otherwise, though, and set about relieving him of his symptoms and his cash.

They must, of course, first tackle a lovesick daughter, her stunning lover and an intrigued maid who are out to fox them.

This brand new translation of Molière's final play has been written by the ever-so-talented Richard Bean (the man behind the smash hit One Man, Two Guvnors), and directed by Lindsay Posner (Hay Fever, Noises Off).

Best of all, though, is the fact that Argan is played by national treasure Tony Robinson, left – he of Blackadder and Channel 4's Time Team.

Joined on stage by Imogen Stubbs (with Robinson, right) and Tracie Bennet, this redrawing of the play is said to own the realm of riotous farce. Well, we wouldn't expect anything less from Baldrick, would we? Plus, a little fact for you: in 1673, during a production of The Hypochondriac, Molière was taken ill while playing Argan, and died a few hours later. He made sure he finished his performance, though.

Paintings and etchings

A CAMBRIDGE artist's preoccupation with trees is set to be renewed with a new show at an Ely gallery.

John Preston: Paintings and Etchings is on show now at The Old Fire Engine House.

The St Mary's Street gallery space aims to explore Preston's delicate, often monochrome and deeply atmospheric pieces based on – among other things – local scenes such as the imposing Ely Cathedral.

After studying architecture and art history in Cambridge, Preston took up a post as a town planner and conservation officer, indulging in his passion for paint on the side.

Now a historic environment consultant and lecturer, who also works on sustainability issues, he has a new permanent studio space at St Barnabas Press, Cambridge.

He said: "I have always painted and drawn, notably in travels around Italy.

"It was in 1980 at an evening class in Cambridge that I was eagerly led to etching, while studios in Cambridge, Spain, and Cornwall gave a springboard for further development."

This latest show sees the Cambridge Drawing Society member return to trees – which featured heavily in his 2013 show, the tree-themed exhibition Silver Silvium alongside fellow local artist Neil Warmsley.

Preston explains: "This Old Fire Engine House exhibition features mainly buildings and landscape.

"The paintings include watercolours of the Fens and of Lough Swilly in Donegal, plus acrylics of Tuscany.

"The etchings include tree-themed work produced for my 2013 exhibition, plus new images of Italy, Cambridge and Ely – and our kitten."

Work by ceramicist Cathy D'arcy – a returning favourite of the gallery's – will also be on show in the upstairs arts space.

She depicts "animals and people in a comic and endearing way" we're told, and her interpretations of wide-eyed, fluffy-collared owls are particularly charming.

The exhibitions will run jointly until Sunday, November 30.

The gallery is open daily.

Gardening gifts galore

GIFTS for the gardeners are everywhere, catering for everyone from armchair enthusiasts to green-fingered gadget lovers. Here are just a few ideas to suit different gardening types.

THE ARMCHAIR GARDENER

■ For those who want inspiration from gardens at home and abroad, The Gardener's Garden (£49.95, Phaidon Press) will provide it in spades. This is surely the ultimate coffee table tome on the world's most outstanding gardens, featuring gardens from every continent by designers including Beth Chatto, Christopher Bradley-Hole, Capability Brown and Tom Stuart-Smith.

■ While browsing through a gardening book, the armchair gardener may also enjoy a hot toddy. Enjoy the aromatic scent of Christmas with a mulled wine or whisky toddy from ready-mixed spice sachets from the National Trust (£4.50 per pack, www.shop.nationaltrust.org.uk and selected National Trust shops across England, Wales and Northern Ireland).

by Hannah Stephenson

■ If armchair gardeners can drag themselves into the kitchen, they may enjoy making a tipple of their own with a Kilner eight-piece sloe gin gift set, designed to provide all the essentials needed to make sloe gin or any other fruit liqueurs. Use natural hedgerow produce with traditional recipes (£22.95, www.harrodhorticultural.com).

THE PAMPERED GARDENER

■ Bring the fragrance of Christmas into the pampered gardener's home with a stylish and subtle pine and eucalyptus scented bauble from Jo Malone, which will happily adorn any tree and make the scent of Christmas last well into the New Year (£32, www.jomalone.co.uk).

THE GADGET LOVER

■ Keep hands warm with a pair of Briers Warm Ups, gloves which you stick in the microwave to heat up the micro gel within them. They should stay warm for up to an hour and you can dry them naturally and wipe with a damp cloth (£24.99, www.briersltd.co.uk).

■ Save space in the shed with Handigger, a Swedish product used to dig, plant, scoop, level or just break up compacted soil. With an ergonomically comfortable handle recommended for people with osteoarthritis and rheumatic pain and two different shaped blades, this multi tool took two years of testing to develop it to suit both amateur and professional gardeners (£9.99, www.chaselink.co.uk).

THE OUTDOOR STYLIST

■ Create an illusion of space with a garden mirror. This ornate Gothic mirror from Harrod Horticultural will be an eye-catching addition to any garden wall and make the area seem bigger. The cream mirror is made from wood and painted with an antique wash, waterproof paint to withstand the elements. The mirror is 85cm high x 66cm wide (£49.95, www.harrodhorticultural.com).

THE WILDLIFE LOVER

■ A new idea comes from the Eden Project in the form of Wildlife Seed-bombs (£3.50 each, www.edenprojectshop.com), which you soak first then throw on to a section of your garden and simply watch it burst into life. These are ideal for adding colour and attracting pollinating insects to sections of neglected garden.

■ Bird lovers will appreciate a classy bird feeder which you can also personalise. Check out the Oak Hanging Bird Feeder from Getting Personal, which comes with a thick, twisted rustic rope so that you can hang it from a tree branch or other support. Featuring a shallow bowl for seeds and nuts, the wide edge of the feeder can be engraved with a short message or name (£84.99, www.gettingpersonal.co.uk).

■ Join us tomorrow from 4pm to 8pm for CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NIGHT, with a great selection of Christmas gifts and goodies. There will be a performance by the Cavell Community Choir at 7pm, free entry and in aid of Pancreatic Cancer Research.

■ You can catch one of Scotland's most successful and long-lasting groups MARMALADE on Saturday at 7.30pm. Their cover of the Beatles' Ob-La-Di Ob-La-Da was their big number one and charted for 20 weeks in 1968. They were making hits right up to 1976 when Falling Apart At The Seams reached number nine in the UK charts. Between those times they spent 120 more weeks in the charts with Reflections and Loving Thing.

■ The Haverhill Silver Band present STRICTLY – PETE BEACHILL on Sunday at 7.30pm. Most people will probably not have heard of trombonist Peter, but there's a good chance that they will have seen him in BBC's Strictly Come Dancing band. Peter's CV boasts accompanying Sting, Tom Jones, Cliff Richard, Shirley Bassey, Cleo Laine, Tony Bennett, Michael Jackson, Pink Floyd, Paul McCartney, Diana Ross, to name but a few.

■ Ireland's favourite country singer JIMMY BUCKLEY returns by popular demand on Monday at 7.30pm. From County Limerick, Jimmy is one of the top entertainers on the Country and Irish music scene. The show consists of old-style traditional country music, Irish ballads, music from the 60s, 70s and 80s, as well as tributes to some of the greats including Hank Williams, Charlie Pride, Merle Haggard to name but a few.

■ London Contemporary Theatre bring MACBETH IN PITCH BLACK to us on Wednesday November 19 at 7.30pm. Join us for a pacy version of Shakespeare's tragedy, performed in the round and in darkness. Feel every treacherous moment with Macbeth and learn what it's like to never quite know who's watching you as the plot thickens into darkness and despair. Feel Macbeth being easily led by words as he and Lady Macbeth wade deeper into blood. Will the witch's prophecy of Macbeth becoming King come to life or are they leading him into fallacy? Only time will tell. Suitable for ages 12 and over.

■ On the cinema front we have PRIDE (15) set in a remote Welsh pit village during the miners' strike with Imelda Staunton, Bill Nighy, and Dominic West showing on Thursday November 20 at 7.30pm. GONE GIRL (18) showing on Friday November 21 and Friday December 3 at 7.30pm, is based on Gillian Flynn's 2012 bestseller and is a deceptive and irresistible thriller from David Fincher, the man behind Se7en, Zodiac and the English-language version of The Girl With The Dragon Tattoo. Nick and Amy have a seemingly perfect marriage until their fifth wedding anniversary when Amy inexplicably goes missing and Nick is singled out as the prime suspect in her disappearance.

■ Events to look out for include RORY MCGRATH AND PHILIP POPE in Bridge Over Troubled Water on Saturday November 22 at 8pm, JAZZ AT THE MOVIES with Swinging Sounds from the Silver Screen on Sunday November 23 at 7.30pm and TONY STOCKWELL, psychic medium, on Tuesday November 25 at 7.30pm.

THE new Skoda Fabia has been awarded the maximum five-star rating in the Euro-NCAP crash tests.

The outstanding test results underline the high level safety of the new small car from Skoda, which is going to be launched in the first European markets in the next couple of days. The Euro-NCAP rating is based on results for occupant protection for adults and children, pedestrian protection and safety assistance systems.

"One of the aims of the new Skoda Fabia development was to bring top-level safety performance to the small car segment," said Skoda board member for technical development, Dr Frank Welsch. "The maximum five-star rating is confirmation by independent experts that we have achieved this goal and it shows that the new Skoda Fabia is one of the safest

Assistant (fatigue detection). Other safety systems include Speedlimiter (standard from SE), Hill-Hold Control and an electronic tyre pressure monitor.

Meanwhile Tesla's Model S has also received the maximum-possible five-star safety rating from Euro-NCAP.

Model S is one of just a few cars to have ever achieved a five-star safety rating from both Euro-NCAP and the US National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). Additionally, Model S is the only car this year to have achieved both a five-star Euro-NCAP rating and five stars in every NHTSA sub-category, including frontal impact, side impact, and rollover. Only two other cars have earned the same recognition since 2011 (when NHTSA introduced its latest rating scheme).

The new Skoda Fabia received the maximum five-star rating in all four areas (occupant protection for adults, child safety, safety assistance systems and pedestrian protection). The testers particularly emphasised the stability of the passenger compartment. For the protection of 18-month-old children the new Skoda Fabia achieved maximum points, and the protection of three-year-old children was also awarded high marks.

The new Skoda Fabia scored well thanks to innovative safety features that were previously reserved for higher vehicle segments. Front Assistant with integrated Emergency Braking Function is standard from SE spec. Also in the new Skoda Fabia is the Multi-Collision Brake which is part of the standard Electronic Stability Control (ESC).

Available for the first time in the new Fabia is the optional Driver Activity

Hunt bags brace of tries but Haverhill suffer narrow defeat

HAVERHILL were edged out 29-24 by Shelford IV in Eastern Counties Greene King Division Two West.

Shelford opened the scoring with a converted try after four minutes. After 15 minutes, a scrum on Shelford's five-metre line saw a good effort by the Haverhill pack, ending up with them crossing the line for a touch down.

Haverhill went in front when they turned over possession and after Doyle Onley had beaten a number of players, he got the ball moving through the backs, with the final off-load going to Adam Hunt to score under the posts for a 12-7 lead.

The visitors kept up the pressure, but a poor decision to kick away the advantage resulted in Shelford breaking out for an unconverted try.

With five minutes left of the half, Shelford ran the ball from halfway to get a converted try to retake the lead, 19-12.

It was a quiet start to the second half, but things heated up after 10 minutes when Haverhill lost a scrum on the opposition's five-metre line, leading to Dave Quinney giving the pack a pep talk.

They were soon back in business and driving forward, with ball being moved along the line to Collins Musavengana to touch down, although the conversion was missed, leaving Haverhill two points adrift of their opponents.

But two minutes later, Hunt burst through six players on a 60-yard run to score, and to give Haverhill a 24-19 lead.

They held the upper hand for 20 minutes, but then Shelford scored in the corner to bring the scores level at 24-24.

However, with just a few minutes remaining, a tired team let one last try through, allowing Shelford to edge a 29-24 victory.

A good game by Haverhill, with everyone performing well, earned them two bonus points, and without a couple of small errors could have easily seen the score line the other way around.

Two tries: Adam Hunt crossed the whitewash twice for Haverhill.

Borough denied win by late penalty call

HAVERHILL Borough were denied a win over high-flying Debenham LC in the Thurlow Nunn League, First Division after a late penalty.

Visitors Borough started the game brightly, making the most of the conditions that were in their favour.

Martin Westcott almost put them in front when he headed wide, and Harry Halls and Gavin Taylor both forced good saves from Debenham keeper Sam Chilvers.

But Borough took the lead in the 36th minute when Westcott raced on to a through ball and slotted past the stranded Chilvers.

In the second half, it was Debenham's turn to take advantage of the wind, and as a result they began to dominate possession.

Borough keeper Charlie Turner was forced into some good saves, but Westcott and substitute Steve Leys had chances to extend the lead late on.

They failed to take them, and Borough were left to rue those misses as the home side were awarded a penalty.

Turner produced a magnificent double save to stop the spot-kick but he was left helpless as the visitors bundled home the rebound.

On Wednesday night, goals from Westcott and Elkins ensured Haverhill Borough enjoyed a 2-0 win at Needham Market reserves.

Borough took the lead in the 35th minute when Westcott headed home from Harry Halls' cross.

Turner made some good saves as Needham Market looked to get back into the game in the first half.

But the visitors extended their lead on the hour when Westcott was brought down in the area. Elkins converted the penalty to make it 2-0.

Sixteen-year-old Leon Bailey came off the bench to make his debut in the 70th minute and made a positive impression.

With 15 minutes left, Halls cleared off the line to keep the hosts out, and in the closing stages, Leys missed a great chance to make it 3-0.

In the Premier Division, Marc Abbott's 90th minute goal gave Haverhill Rovers a 2-1 win over Wivenhoe Town at the New Croft.

The hosts took the lead in the third minute through Nick Wilderspin. Wivenhoe equalised in the 42nd minute to make it 1-1 at the break.

A second yellow card for a Wivenhoe player 12 minutes from time proved costly for the visitors as Abbott grabbed the winner with a free kick that eluded everyone.

Webb edges to victory in Rehab Cup

GARY Webb's impressive score of 40 points saw him edge to victory in Haverhill's Rehab Cup.

The individual stableford competition was open to all sections of the club, with a field of 62 taking part.

Webb took victory by one point from Eamonn Bareham, who was second from Tim Daniels on countback.

Catie Heathfield returned the best score of the ladies section with 36.

Gerry Wheatley won the midweek ladies' medal competition with a nett 87.

She was one shot clear of runner-up Pat Wellstead.

The Saturday competition saw Lyn Fish take victory after scoring 76.

That put her five shots clear of Wheatley, who took second on countback from Mary Sail.

The second meeting of the Suffolk Winter Alliance at Stowmarket had to be cancelled as there were temporary greens throughout due to the heavy overnight rain.

The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday at Southwold.

Duo double up in win for Wratting

DANIEL Cordwell and George Jenkinson grabbed two apiece as West Wratting under-14s downed Huntingdon Rowdies 4-2 in the Cambridge & District Colts League Cup quarter-final.

Cordwell's brace saw Wratting hold the lead heading into half time, with Huntingdon pulling a goal back just before the interval.

But a nervy first half showing gave way to a much more composed performance from Wratting after the break and they went on to secure a comfortable win.

Jenkinson grabbed both of Wratting's second half goals, although Rowdies did hit back with a late consolation.
